

Washington Post says its newsroom didn't vet flier seeking conference business (Minneapolis-St. Paul)

Contributed by Webmaster
Friday, 03 July 2009
Last Updated Friday, 03 July 2009

More info...

NEW YORK - The Washington Post asked lobbyists and business leaders to pay $25,000 to attend a dinner discussion with government officials and journalists at the home of its publisher, and then canceled the event after the invitations became public.

Work At Home Opportunities

{mos_sb_discuss:2}